

New School Year, New Reads!

A September Reading Challenge for Kids

- September 6 is National Read a Book Day. Find a book you think you can finish in one afternoon and see if you can read it all that day.
- Read a picture book about autumn.
- Celebrate the new school year by reading a book that mostly takes place at school.
- If you are lucky enough to have a tree near where you live, find a comfortable spot and read a book underneath it.
- Try reading a book of short stories. (You don't have to finish every story if you don't want to. Pick the ones that you're most excited about and dive into those first!)
- Read a nonfiction book by or about a Hispanic person to celebrate Hispanic Heritage Month.
(Visit Brightly for some great recommendations.)
- September 25 is National Comic Book Day. Sometime this month, read a comic book or graphic novel.
- Reread one of your favorite books and choose a favorite passage or quote. Make a bookmark that features that line.
- Don't have a library card? Head to the library during Library Card Sign-Up Month this September to get one! If you already have a card, check out a book you've wanted to read from your local library.
- Read a book with an animal main character.
